To whom it may concern,

It is my great pleasure to recommend João Augusto da Silva Lima for the ELAP – Emerging Leaders in the Americas Program. I have known João for one year since he joined the Systems Analysis and Development course at Fatec Mococa and started taking English classes at the college.

João Augusto da Silva Lima is an outstanding student in our institution, and this is what I can certify based on his academic performance. He has always demonstrated enthusiasm and commitment to learn and build solid knowledge along his academic career and he has been interested in different areas, especially information technology, programming, and languages.

It is relevant to mention that João Augusto da Silva Lima is recognized between students and professors for his proactivity and leadership skills. He is good at predicting scenarios, proposing solutions to problems and guiding classmates when they have to overcome challenges in various issues in the Systems Analysis and Development course.

João Augusto da Silva Lima has great interest in having contact with different cultures, so he has been waiting for an opportunity to expand his interaction with communities abroad. Thus, taking part in the Emerging Leaders in the Americas Program would be an excellent occasion for him to improve his academic skills and boost his cultural repertoire. Furthermore, his participation in the Program would also be beneficial to Lakehead University as he would be able to share his experience with that academic community. Additionally, positive effects would also be generated to Fatec Mococa because international mobility increases the institution's visibility, enhances its credibility, and promotes better opportunities for growth inside the local community.

Sincerely,

Dr. Isaias Eliseu da Silva
